The musical program given at the Miss Kennedy's school recital by the faculty of the department of music in the auditorium of the Masonic temple Tuesday evening, was much enjoyed by the many musical guests in attendance.

Miss Jean Howell Burns, pianist, was at her best, and her playing gave evidence of excellent technique and musical tone. Miss Helen Louise Eaton, soprano, has a voice of sweetness and beauty and rendered her numbers with great grace and charm. Schubert's "Ave Marie" and "All Through the Night," (old Welsh melody), sung by Miss Eaton, accompanied by Miss Burns, with a charming violin obligato by Albert E. Kember, were gems of the delightfully arranged program.

JAPANESE BAR GERMAN MUSIC

Held in Connection with the Coronation of the Emperor of the Japanese.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
KIOTO, Nov. 17.—Only music of the Allies was played today at the second of the great national feasts provided by the emperor in celebration of his coronation. German music was barred on account of the war.

In contradistinction to the first feast held last night when the music was entirely that of old Japan, that of today was entirely modern. Court musicians rendered selections by modern composers of Russia, France and Italy, including airs by Massenet, Bizet, Verdi and the Russian genius, Serapin, who died several months ago. The selection was left to Professor William Dvorak, a musician attached to the household department.

Today's feast, which began at noon in the Nijo palace was purely modern, both as to menu and entertainment. The members of the diplomatic corps, including George W.

Guthrie, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Guthrie were present, as were also the ministers of state, nobles, other dignitaries and representatives of the Diet.

The emperor and suite arrived last, according to court custom. The emperor was dressed in the full uniform of generalissimo of the army, and his suite was brilliant in full dress uniform. There were no formal speeches as on yesterday.

The Nijo palace stands at the former site of the old Nijo Castle, founded by Ota Nobunaga, in the reign of Emperor Goyzei, 1587 A. D. The building of the famous Juraku Castle, erected by Taiko Hideyoshi, was removed here in 1602 A. D., but was destroyed in 1783 by fire. The present building is a reconstruction. The building has since been proclaimed as an imperial palace and by a proclamation issued in 1845 was named the Nijo detached palace. It was at this palace that the last Shogun formally returned the right of political administration to Emperor Mutsuhito. This is known in Japanese history as the "Meiji Restoration of 1868."

heads to keep the ships afloat even after holes are torn in their bottom.

In size the new ships will equal the California, now under construction at the New York navy yard. They will displace 32,000 tons, measure 625 feet in length overall, ninety-seven feet, eight inches beam and draw thirty feet of water. They will have a speed of twenty and one-half knots an hour and will be driven by turbine engines since the navy department probably will not build any more ships of combined steam and electric drive, as is the California, until that vessel has proved its worth. They will carry a dozen four-teen-inch rifles, each in their main battery, mounted three to a turret and with thirty degree elevation, twenty-two 5-inch rifles for defense against destroyers, four submerged torpedo tubes and three anti-aircraft guns to repel aeroplanes and dirigibles.

The steady increase in the size of battleships is shown by a comparison of the new vessels with the Nevada, the latest addition to the navy. They will displace 2,500 tons more than the Nevada, show an increased length of nearly fifty feet and a few feet additional breadth and will mount twelve big guns against the Nevada's ten.

In appearance the new ships will show a marked departure from vessels of their type now in commission as they will be constructed with long overhanging bows, known as clipper stems, patterned after swift sailing ships of days gone by. The result, in the opinion of navy designers, will be to give the battleship greater freedom from pitching in heavy seas.

WOMEN

William F. Stead, the late English journalist, said of him: "Here is a man of gifts, a speaker who can hold great audiences, a traveler who has seen things; who, having a great deal to say, knows how to say it. Mr. Gell knows by personal observation the life and environment of the people of the world who have not been touched by Christianity and he has seen the transformation which the Gospel has made."

The speakers mentioned, together with W. E. Doughty, of New York, the team leader and educational secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, are expected to arrive in Clarksburg on train No. 12, arriving here at 5:37 p. m. Other speakers who will participate in subsequent programs of the convention will arrive on later trains. All are coming here from Cincinnati, O., where a similar convention has been in progress and which closes there tonight.

WINE IS HAPPY.

A Fleming Wine is the happiest man in the city and the proudest as well. Mr. Wine always wears a smile but he has one on now that is broader than usual and it never will come off. And why should it, since he is the father of a rosy-cheeked girl baby the stark left his home in the Colonial Heights addition Tuesday night? It is useless to say that the office of the Grasselli Chemical Company, in which he is a valued clerk, is sorely crippled today. The arrival of the daughter has had about the same effect as new wine on him.

Goeke, representing the Francois Coal Company; J. E. Long, of the J. E. Long Coal Company, and a number of other prominent operators of the state.

PRESS CONTROL IN PRUSSIA SOUGHT

By German Government Which Will Establish Central Bureau of News Agencies.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)
AMSTERDAM, Holland, Nov. 17.—The Berlin Vorwaerts publishes prominently an alleged secret communication recently sent out by the Prussian minister of interior to local administrative officials throughout Prussia, containing full details of a scheme for the better control of the press in the interests of the German government. The document informs officials that they must increase their efforts to control the newspapers, especially the small local papers, "the attitude of which has a great influence upon the feeling of the country and upon the results of future elections." The method hitherto employed, it is stated, has not been adequate to insure the exercise of "permanent political influence."

It is announced that the government will henceforward control, through a central bureau, a number of news agencies, and will be able to provide an adequate and proper news service at a rate ranging from $2.50 per month upward. For the use of small newspapers which are in financial straits, the government is prepared to furnish, ready-made newspapers, to which they have only to add the title and such local news as they wish to print on the front page.

thereby saving seventy per cent on the cost of production. The text of these productions "will be carefully watched and emphatically influenced" by government officials.
